See you on Monday!!

Letter from the President

When you buy a new effect, how long does it take you to put it into your regular repertoire? That night? A week? Several Months? I find it curious that we as magicians will buy an effect and start doing it that night or just a few days later and continue doing it until we “get it right”, making our customers pay for our practice time. Look at other performing arts... an actor will sometimes rehearse a show for six months just to perform it two to four times! Actors regularly have critics attend their shows and read about it the next day... how would YOUR show stand up to a critical review? ...or do you need to “practice” some more?
